

worker_max_clients

Synopsis

`worker_max_clients = clients`

Clients is the maximum number of network messages a thread is allowed to service before dying. By increasing this number, the administrator is able to reduce the overhead of threads which re-spawn. The penalty however, is the inability to release unused memory quickly.

Example

`worker_max_clients = 128`

Defaults

256