

qb_init()0

This function is called once in each supervisor thread, to initialize the custom policy, and allows developers to do initialization such as opening a database or loading information from a file.